

Gabrielė Andziulytė

Gabrielė is a Zürich based dancer and teacher.

She currently combines freelance work with her studies in Dance Science. Originally from Lithuania, she started her training there at a young age. She began with ballet, later switched to contemporary dance, which she studied at the National M. K. Čiurlionis School of Arts.

She then moved to Switzerland to continue her path in the dance world and studied contemporary dance at Zürich University of the Arts. The BA studies gave her the opportunity to dig deeper into her craft and explore what she is most passionate about and gain valuable experience while working with various choreographers, such as Luca Signoretti, Nadav Zelner, Audrey Wagner, Katarzyna Gdaniec and Marco Cantalupo. During her internship year, she worked with Company Linga, based in Lausanne.

At present, she is pursuing a MAS in Dance Science, while actively taking part in dance projects. Over the past year, she has also discovered a passion for teaching, sharing her experience and knowledge with other bodies eager to move. For Gabrielė, dance is a language of its own - one that gives her the tools, space and time to understand and to express what is difficult to put into words.
